

When a natural disaster hits, clouds are looming and after the storm, the need is obvious. But what about when skies are blue?

For Jose and Edwina's families, blue skies didn't mean everything was better. In fact, their situation had gotten worse.

Massive flooding hit Hidalgo County, Texas and caused severe damage to their homes. In Edwina's home, the floors and walls were ruined, and the damage done to her furnace, stove, and refrigerator was beyond anything that could be repaired.

Edwina and her seven children had to sleep on blankets on the floor because the family couldn't afford to buy new furniture or appliances.

Seven months after the storm, the skies in Hidalgo County, Texas were blue, but Jose's trailer still leaked when it rained. The walls were caving in, the foundation was ruined, and the interior was covered with mold. Jose and his wife were concerned about the health of their three children.

World Renew Disaster Response Services (DRS) volunteers met with Jose, Edwina, and 240 other families in Hidalgo, Texas to help them start rebuilding their homes and hope.

There are many families like Jose's and Edwina's who, without your support, will go months or years without the help they truly need. Your donations to World Renew DRS will ensure that they are not forgotten and left feeling hopeless.
