Thank you for your gift of an adult literacy class

No one wants or plans to be illiterate. The stigma and shame of illiteracy can be a prison, often leaving the person less able to find fruitful work and connections, facets of the abundant life God wants for us all.

But what if there was no school in your village? What if you got sick and missed a lot of school and got so far behind that you never caught up? What if you had to leave school to work and help your family earn money? No one plans on that.

In Haiti and around the world, World Renew is helping adults who can't read. Part of learning to read, write, and count is making new plans—plans for a better, more abundant future. World Renew's literacy program in Haiti has helped 2,000 adults learn to read and write, preparing them to build their skills, find better work, and be more supportive parents.

Mirlaine and Josette are classmates who signed up for World Renew literacy classes. Josette, who works selling goods on the street, says, "If I can read and write, I can buy new resources and find new ways to sell products." She adds, "I am most excited to help my 13-year-old daughter study and do her homework." Mirlaine nods in agreement, adding, "It hurts me when my child is stuck on homework and I can't help. I also have a dream of being able to read the Bible out loud in church someday."

World Renew wants to help people like Mirlaine and Josette to live the abundant lives that God wants for them. Your gift of an adult literacy class from World Renew's gift catalog in 2018-2019 makes greater abundance possible.
