Thank you for giving the gift of agricultural training

We can't wish an abundant life for someone without helping to meet his or her need for food. In Malawi, 80 percent of the people struggle to grow enough food just to feed their families. Depleted soil and unpredictable flood and drought patterns often leave people hungry or worse—47 percent of children in Malawi are stunted in growth, a physical and intellectual burden they will carry for life.

World Renew wants abundant life for all our brothers and sisters around the world. Having enough food and good health are the bedrock of our work in Malawi, and farmers are eager for tools to secure those things for themselves and their families.

Your gift of agricultural training provides education and support for farmers in climate-smart techniques that promise to rebuild the soil over time, a gift that will last. With lessons in soil rejuvenation, pest management, crop rotation, fertilizing, mulching, and composting, World Renew agricultural training helps farmers in Malawi fight hunger, increase their food security, and stabilize or even grow their family incomes.

Pastor Gibb is a farmer in southern Malawi who has taken advantage of World Renew-sponsored training to great success. "I used to harvest one or two oxcart of crops," he enthuses; "this year I am expecting to fill four or five oxcart!" This abundant harvest is part of building a more abundant life.

Farmers in Malawi like Pastor Gibb have asked us for help. With your gift of agricultural training you have answered yes—yes to a more abundant life.

THANK YOU
