Thank you for giving the gift of a baby kit

It's hard to have an abundant life when you don't have enough to eat. And when you're young, this lack of food doesn't just mean hunger — poor nutrition leaves over 165 million children globally to suffer brain, body, and immune system damage that will leave them challenged for life...less likely to be educated, less likely to earn enough to live.

Children who get proper nutrition before their second birthday can overcome these deficits and are more likely to break the generational cycle of malnutrition. World Renew is passionate about health for children and operates maternal and child health projects in many countries where we serve. The programs engage local people who are also passionate about abundant life for their children and their neighbors' children and eager to learn and to serve.

In rural Kenya, Drucilla walks many miles from village to village, visiting the mothers in her care and teaching them about hygiene, sanitation, nutrition, and even agriculture, all so that their young children can have a strong start. Drucilla monitors children's growth in monthly visits, screening for malnutrition and addressing it right away. A baby kit is essential to her job.

Your gift of a baby kit for a community health worker like Drucilla includes a scale, height measure, and growth charts and comes with the training Drucilla and other women need to do their vital work. Better nutrition promises healthier bodies and brains, stronger immune systems, and more abundant life for little ones.
