

UNSTOPPABLE MOMS

Mother's Day is a touching occasion when we think gratefully about the women who raise us so selflessly. As you celebrate the love and care of your own mother today, will you make room in your heart for a mother who is freeing her family from poverty?

Kadzo Safari Kenga is a mother of five in Kenya. When her children were ages four to 24, her husband abandoned them. With an eighth-grade education and few work skills, Kenga struggled to provide food and safety for her family. She looked to God's strength to carry her, and kept faith that He would provide. Then in 2015, she had opportunity to join a World Renew appraisal in her community.

Through a World Renew Christian partner group, Kadzo created a family action plan and contributed to her community's plan. Then she signed up for agriculture training, joined a savings group, and took business classes. She purchased some land, laid-in a small irrigation system, put a new roof on her house, and started raising goats.

Through your involvement, prayers, and financial support, more women like Kadzo Safari Kenga can do what every mother wants—meet her children's needs. "I can buy uniforms so my children can attend school, pay their tuition, and have an emergency fund," Kadzo said. "I am no longer alone in my struggle to survive."
